TERMS AND CONDITIONS

This is a public and mail bid auction conducted by Classical Numismatic Group, Inc. (CNG). Bidding in the auction constitutes acceptance of the following terms and conditions.

1. The property listed in this catalogue is offered for sale by CNG for itself and as agents for various owners and other consignors. We reserve the right to determine the opening price, set bidding increments, vary the order of the auction, reopen bidding in the case of a dispute, and withdraw any lot before the close of the sale.
2. All lots are subject to a 10 % Buyer's fee on the hammer price.
3. All coins are guaranteed genuine and as described. Grading is a subjective art. Adjectival descriptions are the opinion of the cataloguer, and no warranty is expressed or implied. Please note that an auction sale is not an approval sale. Lots examined prior to the sale and lots purchased by floor bidders may not be returned for any reason except authenticity. All claims of misdescription, except claims regarding authenticity, must be made within 5 days of receipt of material. Estimates are intended as a guide only and not as a statement of opinion of value.
4. Terms are for cash, with invoices being due and payable immediately upon receipt. Interest of 1.5% per month, from the date of the auction, shall be payable on invoices not settled within 30 days of the sale date. Payment by check must be made in either US ($) or British (£) funds and drawn on an United States or British bank. All successful bidders outside of North America and the United Kingdom will be charged an additional $15 fee for bank charges. Visa and Mastercard (Access) may be used to pay your bill; however, a 3.5% surcharge is made for the use of a credit card.
5. Bidders not known to us must provide us with satisfactory credit references and/or pay a deposit as determined at CNG's discretion before bidding. Minors are forbidden from bidding without a parent's signature on the bid sheet. CNG may require payment in full from any bidder prior to delivery of lots. Title does not pass until lots are paid in full.
6. Estimates are in U.S. dollars ($US) and bids must be in even dollar ($) amounts. CNG will execute mail bids on behalf of mail bidders. Where competition permits, mail bids will be executed at approximately 10% over the next highest bid. Please note that bids below estimate are rarely reduced, due to heavy competition. In the case of identical bids, the earliest bid wins. A mail bid has priority over an identical floor bid. Bid by lot number. No lots will be broken. CNG cannot assume responsibility for errors made by bidders. Check your bid sheets carefully.
7. A word on Reserves. CNG reserves the right to place a reserve on any lot. If a lot is reserved, it will not be in excess of the estimate, and ordinarily lots are reserved at 60% of estimate.
8. Buyers accepting commission bids from other parties do so at their own risk and will remain responsible to CNG for full settlement per the terms of sale for this auction.
9. Sales tax, postage, handling and insurance are the responsibility of the buyer and are added to all invoices where appropriate. Postage, handling and insurance for book lots will be invoiced separately from coin lots.
10. Prices Realised are published shortly after the sale and mailed to all bidders who have participated in the sale.
11. Bidders consent to waive any claim for incidental or consequential damages arising from this auction.
12. Any dispute regarding this auction shall be adjudicated only by a state or federal court located in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, and all bidders submit themselves to the personal jurisdiction of these courts for this purpose. In any dispute regarding this auction, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover its reasonable attorney fees.

GOOD LUCK, and remember to mail your bid sheet early.

Bid sheets must be received by June 10, 1994.

This goat's head symbol is not recorded by Price or Müller on the broad flan issues of Asia Minor of the 3rd-2nd centuries BC. This symbol was used by Aegae for its autonomous issues, and also for a brief coinage by the Seleukid king Antiochos II, struck until Eumenes I of Pergamon seized the city around 252 BC. The posthumous tetradrachms of Alexander appear in the last quarter of the 3rd century BC, when the continuing struggle between the Attalids of Pergamon and the Seleukids of Syria brought not only a constant requirement for coinage, but also some degree of autonomy to the cities of Troas, Aeolis and Ionia, who took advantage of the situation to initiate new civic coinage. By early in the 2nd century, the posthumous Alexanders were being replaced by the civic issues sometimes termed "stephanephoroi" for the wreath encircling the reverse. Each city, such as Myrina and Kyme, the two most prolific issuers, had its own distinct civic types. Aegae had one brief series, with Apollo / Zeus as the types, dated by some to circa 190 BC. But until the appearance of this coin, no Alexander coinage, posthumous or otherwise, was known from Aegae.

Thompson's original dating for the New Style has been superseded by new research, but the correct absolute dating for the series is still subject to debate. Otto Mørkholm, "The Chronology of the New Style Coinage of Athens", ANSMN 29, places the beginning at circa 185 BC, with a change occurring with emission 20, dated by him to circa 145 BC, the end of the Achaean War. M.J. Price, in "The Larissa, 1968 Hoard" - Kraay-Mørkholm Essays, re-evaluates the evidence in the light of new hoard finds, and views circa 166 BC as the starting point for the series. The closely related group offered here, featuring emissions 6 to 21, found in association with, among other coins, a series of Seleukid tetradrachms with dates ending at Seleukid year 168 (145/144 BC), enforces the likelihood of a 145 BC terminus date, preceded by an annual sequence going back some 20 years. It is expected that examination of this group will help further our knowledge of the Hellenistic coinage of Greece and Asia in the 2nd century BC.

The style of this piece is clearly not of an official nature. The monograms are an approximation of those on Thompson 50-55, which should have a grain ear as a symbol. The "herm" might be an attempt to reproduce the trophy used on the previous issue (Thompson 37-48). An intriguing piece.

Houghton 93; Mørkholm, "The Accession of Antiochos IV of Syria" MN 11, dies A3/P22. VF. Rare. ($1000)

Ex Ward and Metropolitan Museum collections, Sotheby, 1973, lot 666; Bunbury collection, Sotheby, 1896, lot 465. The five year old Antiochos, his older brother Demetrios being held by the Romans, became king after his father's death at the hand of his minister Heliodoros. Unfortunately for both, the ambitious Antiochos, brother of Seleukos, desired the throne and quickly replaced the minister as regent. Five years later the boy himself disappeared from history. The rare portrait coins of the young Antiochos were probably struck in the short period before his uncle took control.

193. SYRIA, Seleukid Kings. Antiochos IV. 175-164 BC. AR Tetradrachm (16.70 gm). Antioch mint. Year 167 (146/145 BC). VF, porosity and rough edges. Rare. ($1500)

The young Demetrios, son of Seleukos IV, had been taken as hostage to Rome in 176 BC as part of the peace terms after the disastrous defeat of Antiochos II at Magnesia. By 162 BC, with both his father Seleukos IV and his uncle Antiochos IV dead, Demetrios escaped from Roman captivity and easily deposed the young son of Antiochos IV to take control of the Seleukid Empire. On his coins, Demetrios replaced the usual representations of Apollo or Zeus with a seated Tyche, proclaiming his good Fortune. The sea creature supporting her throne alludes to his successful escape by sea. The naturally dour Demetrios' personality was further affected by his long stay in Rome, and although he proved a competent ruler, his defeat by Alexander Balas, a pretender supported by Attalos II of Pergamon, was received with little grief.

Many Persis drachms show evidence of being overstruck. This piece is intriguing due to the fact that the undertype can be identified. The irregular edge is not caused by flan cracks, but by the coin being overstruck on a serrate Roman Republic denarius. A fragment of design is visible on the reverse - the tie ends of a wreath above a long palm branch - enough to identify a denarius of Q. Antonius Balbus, circa 83-82 BC (Crawford 364/1). This is clear evidence of the infiltration of Roman influence in the East, and it is tempting to tie in a specific event of the mid 1st century BC. Could a flood of denarii in the East have followed in the wake of the destruction of Crassus' legions at Carrhae in 53 BC, the increase in the availability of good silver leading to the expanded production of Persis drachms?

Ex Hunt Sale I (1990), lot 108 (realized $18,700); Hess-Leu (1957), lot 322; Jameson collection, 1812; Harlan P. Smith collection, Sotheby's (1905), lot 356. Arsinoë II, wife (and sister) of Ptolemy II exerted a powerful influence on her younger mate, her experience in statecraft coming from her earlier marriage to Lysimachos of Thrace, and her subsequent involvement in the turbulent politics of the Successor kingdoms. After her death in 271 BC, her devoted husband deified her, and initiated a cult in her honor. The temple he intended to construct (plans cut short by his own death) in her name was to have an iron ceiling with a statue of Arsinoë, made entirely of lodestone, suspended in the air beneath it. That grandiose plan came to nothing, but the series of large value gold and silver coins struck in her name was a suitable memorial. The letters behind her bust are die sequence numbers, and these large value pieces probably served as trade coins and for the distribution of largess. The types were continued by later Ptolemies into the middle of the 2nd century BC.

Tacitus was an elderly senator when he came to the throne, 75 years old, according to some sources. Despite his age, Tacitus and his brother Florian immediately took to the field to repel attacks from German and Gothic tribes. This coin marks the victory over restive Goths in Asia Minor who originally had been hired to assist in Aurelian's campaign against Persia. The rebellion was put down, but the strain led to the death of the aged emperor. His brother would survive him by only a few months, being murdered by supporters of Probus.

During the reign of Constantine I, except in a very few circumstances, the minting of gold coins was confined to the temporary residence of the emperor. This 'travelling mint' moved with the emperor, and his journeys can be traced by tracing the issuance of gold coinage. In early 327, Constantine and his travelling court stopped in Thessalonica, his second such stop in a year. During this visit, there was a large issuance of gold multiples and this lone solidi issue. This Victory type was new and was not used again in Thessalonica, but was later copied at both Nicomedia and Antioch.

Near VF, reddish-brown patina. Extremely rare. ($1000)

Diadumenian, though available in the Imperial series often enough, is one of the great rarities for the Alexandrian series. Both his billon and bronze coinage from Alexandria is of the utmost rarity - this is the first example handled by this firm and this cataloguer, and indeed to the best of our knowledge, it is the first specimen of an Alexandrian Diadumenian to be offered in a public venue since the 1977 Münzen und Medaillen AG Auktiones Auktion 7 (lot 466, Æ drachm, Dattari 4090, realized 840 Sfr.). Previous to the Auktiones offering, the Mabbott collection offered a potin tetradrachm (lot 3517, realized $90, June 1969) and there was a tetradrachm in the Curtis collection (Curtis 939). An elusive opportunity for the Alexandrian specialist which may not be duplicated again for many years!

BRITISH (Celtic to Modern)

Important Celtic Gold Bracelet

AV

515. CELTIC. Circa 1000-650 BC. Complete gold penannular bracelet with maximum dimension 75mm (140.08 gm). Formed of a solid nearly round bar which expands at either end into ovate flat-faced terminals. Professionally conserved, displaying a few minor abrasions. Extremely rare and important. [See color photo on front cover]. ($10,000)

Found on 15 August 1993 in a field at Aldingbourne, West Sussex. Celtic gold items like this massive bracelet apparently had multiple uses: as objects of personal adornment, as a store of wealth, and as currency. Accompanied by a report from the British Museum reading in part as follows:

Discovery: The bracelet was discovered... on 15 August 1993 in a field at Aldingbourne, West Sussex (SU 928056). The field had recently been cleared of a pea crop and was being searched with metal detectors.... After receiving a signal on his machine [the finder] dug to a depth of six inches and retrieved the bracelet. No other finds were reported from the vicinity.

Analysis: Non-destructive surface analysis using the X-ray fluorescence technique established that the composition of the bracelet is predominantly gold with minor proportions of silver and copper.

Discussion: The bracelet is of a familiar Later Bronze Age type and the metal analysis is consonant with this attribution. Associated finds elsewhere provide a dating of c.1000-650 BC. Such objects have been found both singly and in hoards, usually with other bracelets. They are not known to have been deposited in graves.

Similar pieces are known from finds in Ireland. The multi-colored effect is produced by twining together bands of different gold alloys. It may be purely decorative, or it may be an attempt to adjust the overall fineness of the metal when using gold from different sources.

The Alexander Hannah Collection of Scottish Coins, Paper Money, Tokens and Medals

The following collection was formed over the last forty years by the late Alexander Hannah, F.S.A. (Scot.), a longtime Seaby customer. This collection contains over 1000 items with a special emphasis on Scottish tokens. Mr. Hannah's passion for varieties within the token series is keenly evident in this collection, and over the years he published numerous articles on Scottish tokens in the Seaby Coin and Medal Bulletin including "Scottish Tokens - Edinburgh Public Kitchen, 1799" (July 1965, pp. 232-235) and "Scottish Tokens - Aberdeen" (January 1967, pp. 3-9).

Mr. Hannah also formed a representative Scottish type collection of coins and currency which, although small in quantity, has several important rarities including: lot 570, the Mary 1543 gold twenty shillings piece, lot 582, the gold half-pistole of William II (III), and lot 584, the important £1 note issued 9th February 1750 by The Royal Bank of Scotland. The Hannah collection represents a rare opportunity for the collector of Scottish material, and prospective bidders should carefully peruse the following 137 lots, for they contain many significant items which will probably not reappear on the market for many more years.

The Royal Bank of Scotland 1750 Issue £1 Note

(Photo Reduced)

584. The Royal Bank of Scotland. £1 dated 9th February 1750. Inscribed 'Twenty Shillings' and additionally '£ 12 Scots' at the top. Printed in black from a copper plate on fully watermarked paper, uniface. Portrait of George II in profile contained within a large, scroll letter 'T' (of The). Payable to the Secretary and signed by the Accountant and the Cashier. Douglas p.194, 7 (R10); Pick 281 (unpriced). F-VF, a little ragged on the top, bottom and right edges; very slight splits along center fold and glue stains on back in corners where once mounted, endorsed on back also. Overall, in above average condition for this Extremely Rare note. ($1000)

The Royal Bank of Scotland was founded in 1727 and issued its first paper currency that year for the denominations of 20s., £ 10, £ 20, £ 50 and £ 100 (only 20s. notes known to have survived). A second issue in 1742 was made of only a 20s. note. The present note was the third issue of a 20s. note. All three of these issues are of the greatest rarity with very few auction appearances. A VG-F specimen of the present type sold in the Christie's auction of 6 October 1981 for £ 1350 (lot 196, illustrated). Also included in the present lot is a handwritten note dated 'September 1846' which states the following: "The Royal Bank of Scotland was instituted 1727. The note annexed is stated both in Scotch & English Money being for £ 12. Scots and £ 1-English. It is supposed there are none, or very few indeed of so early a date now in existence. The note was received by one of the Tellers of the Bank of Scotland some years ago in the usual way of business; being the only one ever presented there. September 1846." (Unsigned, VF, paper in excellent condition and writing quite legible, glue stains on back from mounting). A letter from Frank Purvey of B.A. Seaby, Ltd., dated 1st February 1962, offering the present note to Alexander Hannah along with an invoice for £ 10 are also included. An elusive opportunity for the numismatist.

TOKENS

The Hannah collection is especially noteworthy for its token section. Indeed, Scottish 'Conder' tokens were one of Mr. Hannah's areas of expertise, an area that he published many articles on during his long collecting career, most in the pages of The Seaby Coin & Medal Bulletin. Many extremely rare and seldom, if ever, offered tokens are contained in the lots listed herein. A few lots that merit special attention are: lot 623, the Ayrshire Penny, D & H 1; lot 627, the Kirkcaldy penny, D & H 1; and lot 652, an extremely rare group of lead Scottish tokens, perhaps the first ever such offering! Prospective bidders should examine the following lots carefully as many choice tokens await the diligent collector.

This medal commemorates the beginning of Gustavus Adolphus' campaign against Poland with the taking of Riga on the Livonian Gulf. But what is the connection between it, John Godfrey Hanna and Quebec? The city of Quebec was founded by French settlers in Canada in 1608. It remained French until 1759, except for a brief period, 1629-1632, when a British force under Sir Davis Kirk held it until the treaty of St. Germain-en-Laye resolved the territorial disputes between France and England, at least for the time being. To suggest the medal might be a memento of Hanna's service in Canada leaves unresolved the question of why a Swedish medal should be used for that purpose? Taken from a French officer who served with Swedish forces? The answer can only be speculation.

This concludes the Hannah Collection of Scottish Coins, Paper Money, Tokens and Medals
